Study Tips

We all like to eat and drink when we study. However, that may not be the wise thing to do. The muscles you use to eat are the same muscles you use to talk. Eating and reading can send mixed signals to the brain. If you have to eat:

- Try hard candy. Some people claim the peppermint and spearmint candies are the best because of the aroma.
- Take breaks to drink your coffee or soda.
- Make food and refreshment breaks your study breaks.

Honor Society

The Brown Mackie College-Findlay chapter of the Alpha Beta Kappa National Honor society will be holding their spring induction ceremony on Wednesday, March 16. The following students are being inducted into this prestigious organization:

- Amber Frank
- Amanda Irby
- Cody McGough
- Scott Thompson

The honor society donated $60 to the campus scholarship fund from the sale of carnations and candy on Valentine’s Day. The first students from the Occupational Therapy Program are starting their externships. Sending them into the community for additional training and knowledge are program director Jennifer Baier-Diers, and Instructor Christine Poe. Pictured with Jennifer and Christine are students Amy Weiner and Susanne Worstine, and seated is student Teresa Crawford. Congratulations to the students and the instructors.
